

Absolute Attraction Present: A Quick Interview with Richard “Gambler” La Ruina

Questions:

(0:18) Can you explain your journey, from where you were to where you are now?

(4:45) What is the one element that allowed you to progress faster than other guys?

(6:45) What's your type of woman? How important is it to know what you want?

(10:35) I think a lot of guys had their “ideal” type of women in their life at some point, and maybe they lost them, or never even got them in the first place. What would you say to those guys that had their ideal woman in their lives and then lost her?

(14:00) Do you feel your techniques; approaches and so on would be equally applicable to a different type of woman? How universal is pickup and attraction?

(16:05) Situational versus indirect openers, can you go over them really quickly. What's your preference and why?

(21:45) Take for example this common situation, there's a beautiful girl reading at a coffee shop. How do you approach her?

(24:10) When you talk, people just want to listen. What's the key to being interesting to women?

(29:00) You have a concept of breaking rapport, what is it? How important is it to your game?

(32:15) How important do you feel body language is, and is that at all related to looks?

(35:00) What's the biggest mistake you see guys make, and how should they avoid it?
